ANNOUNCEMENTS

Special Committee.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

"The Sign of the Cross," Stupendous Photoplay, Coming Tomorrow.

Today for the last time William Crane will be seen in David Harum, one of Paramount's leading features and Mr. Crane's greatest success. This excellent feature abounds in the sentiments and homely principles assoclated with rural life in America and made a big hit with yesterday's audiences at the Auditorium. Other reels will also be shown today, including Too Many Crooks, a Nestor comedy reel, and In His Mind's Eye, a fine drama by the Big U company.

The management announces for their Paramount feature for tomorrow and Thursday William Farnum in The Sign of the Cross, a spectacular and impressive drama and one of the most notable of the Paramount releases.

The Sign of the Cross, derived from the symbol which to scores of millions has for many centuries borne so pro-found a significance, has been filmed in five parts by the Famous Players, with an extravagance of scenic and spectacular effects and a faithfulness to the original settings and atmosphere seldom seen in motion pictures.

William Farnum in the dignified and impressive role of Marcus Superbus, acquits himself with distinction throughout the entire performance. It is presumable that no other American actor is so adapted, in physical ap-pearance and dramatic power, to this strong and heroic character. In the carefully selected supporting cast are Rosina Heniey, who makes the role of Mercia, the Christian maiden who converts Marcus and purifies his savage instincts, an inspired role. Ethel Gray Terry makes the character of Berenice a marvelous characterization, and Morgan Thorpe in the role of Favius, Sheridan Block as the cruel Nero, Lila Barclay as Poppaea, as well as the hundreds of supers, display entirely commendable talent and total conformity with the subject and its inherent appeal.

The seventh episode of the Broken Coin and the famous Paramount Travel pictures will also be shown on Wed-nesday-and Thursday.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

"The Goddess," Mammoth Two Reel Event for Today's Big Program.

After the last very thrilling and altogether delightful event in the won derful world-famous serial, The God-dess, the public will be eager to se the event which is the two reel offer ing for today at the Colonial Celestia's ability to get into precarious places seems to be without end, and today we shall see what happens to her in the great sweat-shop of the Metropolis, and other startling things. She overcomes many obstacles herself today in a most amusing way, and the two reeler abounds in situations that are as unique as interesting.

The Biograph cast will be seen in a big two reel drama entitled The Black Sheep, a story that is distinctly a story of the home, and one that can-not fail to entertain and hold the attention of the most exacting and critical audiences. Hazards of Helen are represented by the blg incident, A Railroader's Bravery, in which Helen does some of the most startling things she has ever accomplished, among these being the scenes where she pursues a pair of escaping criminals who are riding the railroad auto. She not only catches them with the big locomotive, but rescues a member of the gang that has been thrown from the auto in a scuffle. Heart-Selig Week-ly completes the bill.

Hanley Horses Attract Attention. A large, elaborately decorated wagon, drawn by six handsome horses, is exciting much attention about the street. The whole exhibit is a travaling advertisement for the Brewery Bottling of Hanley's Peerless Ale one Bottling of Hanley's Peeriess Ale, one of the predominating features being a large fac-simila reproduction of an ide bottle, 10 feet high, on which the abel appears in actual colors. The wagon itself is a heavily constructed vehicle, 14 feet long, 6 feet wide and with a seat 8 feet from the ground. The running gear is painted bright reliew, with black stripes; the body, remillion red decorated hwishly with brass and trimmed with black. The street signs on each side of the vehicle ire also heavily framed with brass. But beautiful as is the wagon, it is the comest drawing it which excite the comest admiration. The six big coan Peecheron geidings weigh from 1300 to 2000 pounds each and attract as much attention on the street as a circus parade. Two men in white unifircus parade. Two men in white uni-forms occupy the driver's seat and ex-tite much comment by the skiful man-ner in which they handle the horses.

Fair Haven—D. M. K. fraternity, a Breek letter society, composed of Yale and graduates and some high school boys, has turned its clubhouse on North Front street into living apartments for its members for a stretch of two weeks. Boating, swimming, shing and athletic events are interperted with formal and informal entertainments.

"As the statement of the applicant was made under out it was submitted by the civil service commission. The offender pleaderal penal code. T

THE KNUT IN KHAKL

We knew him by his iridescent vest,
The faultless crease adown his trousers running,
His hair on either side serenely
pressed.
His coloured socks, described as "simply stunning."

Where is he now? A military kit
Allows no scope for hues phantasmagorial;
A uniform of Procrustean fit
Annihilates pre-eminence sartorial.

"Pitchfork" Dame Nature; she will back return,
Was once affirmed by some old Roman potets.
The truth of this is easy to discern;
For even in khaki garb the knut can show it.

He may not be inordinately smart In regimental revolutions, but he's Facile princeps in the subtle art Of dextrously manipulating puttees. and as his section marches past, we Result of anxious operations gyral)
His legs encased in perfect symmetry
Of elegantly executed spiral.

The Voice that spoke of old on Sinai,— That upon Horeb's holy hill was heard,— Speaks yet again * * * and I am strangely stirred— Saddened or gladdened by the Mys-tery.

For I, alas, am deaf; I cannot gain
More than a little of the truth Divine;
I am no Prophet and I have no key
But for my soul's sake I dare not disdain.

THE KALEIDOSCOPE The needless infantile death rate owing to neglect and ignorance costs this country $3,000,000 a day.

In some parts of Siberia milk is sold frozen around a piece of wood, which serves as a handle to carry it. Documents containing details of the vessel's cargo and the ports for which she is bound are called the ship's man-ifest.

Weather records compiled for more than a quarter of a century indicate that the atmosphere of London is becoming less foggy. Chicago leads cities of the United States in concrete building construc-tion, with Seattle in second place and Philadelphia in third. American toy manufacturers seem to have an increasing trade in Far Eastern ports. German and Austrian toys, which have long dominated the Eastern markets are being shut out at present, with the result that Japan and the United States have the field very largely to themselves. All sorts of weather conditions failed to cause any perceptible fading of a new brand of red paint which was applied to Fire Island Light Vessel, New York, in June, 1914, and was exposed to the elements for 10 months, during which the craft was continuously on station. The Bureau of Lighthouses reports that the paint showed up a bright red at the end of that period and gave the vessel a very conspicu-ous and neat appearance.
